CLAIMS HE COMMITTED SUICIDE IN MAD FRENZY

Widow Testifies Eaton Murdered Adopted Child Before Ending Own Life

CRAZY ANTICS OF
NAVAL MAN TOLD

Defendant Says He Acted as Though He Did Not Know
What He Was Doing

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 25.—That Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton not only died by his own hand, but took the life of his adopted baby as well, was the testimony offered in her own defense here today by Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, accused of her husband's murder. Mrs. Eaton recited her story in a calm and even voice, beginning with her marriage to her first husband, who, she said, also drank heavily.

"After I left my first husband," she said, "I studied nursing and finally secured a position to nurse the Admiral's first wife. The Admiral drank so heavily even then that he was unable to attend his wife's funeral."

"Later I acted as the Admiral's housekeeper. Then we came to Massachusetts and took a cottage at Hull. We married at Hull. As the Admiral's drinking increased, I decided to get him away from club life. The bills poured in and we decided to go to the country."

His Mad Nature.
"The first time I noticed the Admiral's mad and passionate nature was when I was having some dresses made for me, my oldest daughter. She stood before us in short skirts and with bare arms. Suddenly the Admiral jumped from his chair and clasped her in his arms again and again."

Mrs. Eaton then described another affair. "The Admiral on this occasion," she said, "acted as if he did not know what he was doing and I don't believe he did."

Murder of Baby Boy.

"Then we moved to Sand Hills and lived at the beach. A few weeks later we adopted a beautiful baby. One day we all went in bathing. I left the baby asleep at the cottage. When I returned I found the Admiral coming from the house. He was adjusting a collar button, and stared at me with wild and apparently unseeing eyes. I hurried to the baby and picked him up. He began vomiting and I rushed for a doctor. I offered him $1000 if he saved the child's life, but he couldn't."

DEATH NOTICES.

Anti-Saloon Foes to Hold Meeting

Three Big Gatherings Planned for Tomorrow, Armory Session of Evening Being Final.

The forces engaged in the fight to banish saloons from Salem will have three great meetings tomorrow and addresses will be made by speakers who will have much of interest to say to the voters of this city.

At 3 p. m., there will be a woman's mass meeting at the Christian church. A meeting for men only will be held at the armory at 2:30 p. m. A great mass meeting for everybody will be held at the armory at 7:30.

A procession of the Young People's societies of the city will form at a central point and march with banner and song to this great evening service.

RECALL OF STOLZ IS DEPLORED BY CITIZENS

Several Salem citizens have today signed a petition remonstrating against the recall of Councilman Stolz, of the Third ward. The following is the resolution, and the list of signers:

"We, the undersigned, wish publicly to denounce the recent misuse of the recall."

"We consider the recall as an instrument to be used only in extreme necessity in the case of proven dishonesty or malfeasance of office."

"In the case of Mr. Stolz, whose term has almost expired, the recall petition becomes a wanton insult against a man of unquestionable integrity and ability."

"We wish to protest in all earnestness that such policies have nothing to do with the building up of a better town and that the only end they serve is to breed bitterness and strife."

"J. E. Crowe, W. H. Eldridge, A. A. Lee, Max Gehlhar, John H. McNary, W. C. Winslow, Wm. Esch, J. A. Wilson, U. G. Shipley, Aug. Huestein, A. G. Magers, R. D. Byrd, O. D. Bower, O. C. Keener, Geo. O. Savage, Wm. McGilchrist, Jr., Jos. H. Albert, John H. Lewis, Carl Abrams, C. L. Dick, Wm. Brown, Werner Breyman, R. C. Bishop, Clifford W. Brown, Theo. Roth, E. J. Roth, L. H. Barnett, Ed. Schunke, Geo. P. Litchfield, W. H. Steusloff, D. McHenry, S. M. Endicott, W. H. Burghardt, J. H. Reinhardt, V. Nadstaneck, M. Harding, Chas. Roth, J. C. Thompson, G. W. Johnson, Jr., H. A. Johnson, Jr., Curtis B. Cross, Paul B. Wallace, W. I. Staley, M. L. Meyers, W. D. Evans, H. H. Olinger, Reuben P. Boise, Henry B. Thielsen, Geo. G. Bingham."

WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC IS HIT HARD BY 'THE LURE'

"The Lure" drew a good house at the Grand last night, despite the other big attractions in the city, and it was admitted that the play is both moral and instructive. Facts of the white slave traffic were depicted interestingly and a love story was interwoven nicely. That any city should forbid the production as staged here last night can only be explained by the probability that the city officials themselves, or the boss who controls them, are vitally interested in the profits arising from the traffic. The madame, the cadet, the politician behind the dive and the methods used to lure girls to the places are true to life, as any one knows who has seen them ply their trade in many cities.

The part played by the political boss probably raises more of the objections than any other section of the play. This sort of graft is found in nearly every city.

Such plays as "The Lure" cannot help building a sentiment against a form of slavery which should have no place in the United States. The Mann act has thrown terror into the ranks of the procurers and state laws, well enforced, should do the rest.

The company was capable and the staging adequate.

GENERAL HUERTA WILL REMAIN DICTATOR OF MEXICO TILL DEPOSED

Administration at Washington
Realizes Tyrant Will Stick
Until Last.

TO TREAT WITH REBELS

In Case Huerta Is Elected Sunday
Wilson Will Send Representative to Confer With Enemies.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Washington, Oct. 25.—It was clear to the administration today that General Huerta will remain dictator of Mexico until he is deposed forcibly. No official announcement was made that the administration held this view, but every one knew it.

President Wilson unquestionably will be overjoyed if the Mexican rebels can overthrow Huerta. In case the latter is elected Sunday, it was a foregone conclusion that Wilson will send a representative to confer with the rebel leaders. Should the election prove invalid, through the failure of any candidate to secure a majority, the same course will be pursued.

After promising definitely not to be a candidate and declaring subsequently that he would not accept the presidency, even if elected, Huerta saw to it that his name was at the head of his own ticket on the official ballots sent out today.

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION ORGANIZE

On Wednesday, October 22, a meeting was held of members of the Multnomah and Willamette chapters, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the home of the state regent, Mrs. John F. Beaumont, 481 E. 50th St. North, Portland, to organize "The Oregon State Conference Daughters of the American Revolution."

The by-laws were presented by a committee, voted upon and accepted, the annual meeting to be held in March. A nominating committee submitted the following state officers' names and all were unanimously elected:

State Regent—Mrs. John F. Beaumont.

Vice-Regent—Mrs. James N. Davis.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. William D. Scott.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. R. S. Stearns.

Treasurer—Miss Eleanor E. Gile.

Chaplain—Miss Martha Little.

Historian—Mrs. W. C. Witzel.

Auditor—Mrs. E. G. Titus.

Assisting Registrar—Mrs. W. E. Newcome.

Retiring State Regent—Mrs. Wallace McCannant.

The executive board consists of the state officers, chairman of state committee, the regent of each chapter or her representative and a vice-president-general, when a resident of Oregon. Before the March meeting the state regent expects to organize a chapter in Albany and one in Eugene. If all D. A. R.'s or those eligible living in Salem would assist the state regent, there might be a chapter in this city, Mrs. Beaumont states.

Mrs. Lynch Says Criticism Unjust

Calls Upon Capital Journal to Correct an Article Appearing in Morning Newspaper.

Police Matron Lynch called at the office of The Capital Journal this morning and asked the publication of a statement correcting a misstatement appearing in the morning newspaper today. In an advertisement appearing this morning Mrs. Lynch was quoted as saying she could not find a policeman when she wished to take the Barrett girl in charge. Mrs. Lynch said this morning that she never made such a statement, and such criticism of the chief was not justified. She was called to make the arrest at shortly after 11 a. m., she said, and when she put the girl on the car to take her to Mrs. Parker's the chief arrived, and was willing to assist, but his services were unnecessary.

Mrs. Parker had appeared at the Price shoe store, and had sought an officer, but as Officer Welsh had gone to dinner, Chief Shedeek was the only man of the police force on duty, and he was busy on some other work. Accordingly, Mrs. Lynch was called. Mrs. Parker was somewhat fussy about the situation, says Mr. Price, and promised to do something to the police, according to Mrs. Lynch, for not being on hand.

THANKFUL OREGON IS TO LEAD PROCESSION

Governor West this morning sent the following letter to Miss Fern Hobbs, his private secretary now in Washington, D. C.:

"The good news having reached us as to the final announcement that the battleship Oregon, Admiral Clark commanding, would lead the fleets of the world through the Panama canal, I wish to convey through you to Secretary of the Navy Daniels the heartfelt thanks of the good people of Oregon, particularly those of the school children who have labored so long and earnestly to have this great honor conferred upon our state the good ship and her gallant commander."

ARRANGEMENTS MADE TO CASH WARRANTS

State Treasurer Kay this morning received a dispatch from the bank at Bend saying it did not feel able or desirous of cashing state warrants endorsed "not paid for lack of funds." As this is the bank nearest the Tualuma irrigating project, the bank's action made it impossible to cash warrants locally, and Mr. Kay made arrangements with the Lumbermen's National Bank at Portland to cash and carry these warrants. This will simplify matters, as the Bend bank can cash the warrants and turn them over to the Portland bank. Unless some arrangement of this kind had been made the work on the Tualuma project would have been pretty badly hampered.

Culinary Expert.

Salem Housewives Are Planning Monday's Work With View of Taking First Lesson Promptly.

Everything is in readiness for The Capital Journal Cooking School next Monday afternoon at the main auditorium of the armory. The shining gas range is already wearing its smile of welcome; it is enjoying to the full its conspicuous position. It has been so placed that every guest of the school may easily see how Mrs. Vaughn cooks. The kitchen cabinet is standing where it can wink its many eyes at the pretty high school girls, and where they in turn can comfortably look on while Mrs. Vaughn reveals all its secrets. The retiring fireless cooker is trying to hide in a corner, but next week Mrs. Vaughn will bring it to the front and rehearse its many good qualities. The refrigerator, too, stands coldly aloof but it will probably prove itself more friendly when Mrs. Vaughn introduces it to the cooking school audience. The work table and the serving table vie each other with whiteness, and the array of cooking utensils will delight every housekeeper who attends the cooking school with their modern curves and brightness. Salem housewives are eager for the opening of the cooking school Monday afternoon. They are planning their Monday housework with a view of leaving the afternoon quite free. Indeed, many state that they have made arrangements to have every afternoon free for the cooking school, feeling that the unusual opportunity offered them by The Capital Journal, quite warrants this, since the school is to be carried out along higher class lines than the usual cooking school.

Monday's Program Attractive.

On Monday Mrs. Vaughn will lecture on "Scientific Housekeeping." She has some interesting statements to make about the woman who is simply a "consumer," and in no sense a "producer." Salem women will no doubt agree with Mrs. Vaughn in what she has to say about the effect of household training on society. Mrs. Vaughn's lectures are in no sense inconsequential, but constructive, and every woman who hears her will be sure to gain some knowledge which will help her in making her home the most delightful place in the world for her husband and her sons and daughters; a real home, and not just a place in which to eat and sleep; but most of all a place in which to enjoy life; a home sanitary in all its appointments, but no so scrupulously clean and in such perfect order that everyone is made uncomfortable by its cleanliness and orderliness, and in consequence goes somewhere else to be comfortable, and have a good time.

Mrs. Vaughn feels that she cannot lay down hard and fast rules for any housekeeper to follow, as every woman has her own peculiar conditions to cope with. She will tell how she has learned through bitter and unpleasant experience, by unremitting study and thought, and from suggestions gleaned from good housewives everywhere, and

Sargent Named Bank Examiner

United States Bank Man Succeeds Albert and Gets Strong Endorsement for Place.

Owing to the resignation of State Bank Examiner Albert, who has been appointed a national bank examiner, it became necessary to appoint his successor, and the board, at its meeting this morning, selected S. G. Sargent, at present employed in the U. S. National bank here, for the place. The selection is a splendid one, as Mr. Sargent is thoroughly equipped by his years of experience in the banking business to fill the place fully. About the only person who will not be pleased with his selection will be the directors of the U. S. National, and they only because they will regret losing his services.

MRS. IVIE WINS SUIT AGAINST E. C. MINTON

After deliberating but a short time yesterday afternoon, the jury in the case of Maggie May Ivie against E. C. Minton returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in which Mrs. Ivie was awarded $250 damages and costs. The plaintiff was suing Mr. Minton for $10,000 on the grounds of slander.

The first ballot taken by the jury after it received the case was favoring the plaintiff with a judgment of $1000, the second $650 and the third $250 and costs.

Mrs. Ivie was completely exonerated of the charges made by the defendant to the effect she was conducting a house of immoral character, the Cottage Hotel being the house in question.

feels sure that they, by adopting some of her principles and methods will be able to make their housework a pleasure instead of a drudgery.

Defines Well Balanced Menu.

At the close of the lecture Mrs. Vaughn will at once proceed to cook and serve such foods as constitute, by reason of certain definite principles, which she will explain, a well balanced menu. She calls special attention to this matter, showing how a little knowledge about this line, helps as much as any other one thing, to simplify the duties of the housewife, and make the subject of "three meals a day," a pleasant one instead of a bug bear. She will demonstrate, too, how some of the favorite dishes of the husband and children, which have been taboed because they were considered highly indigestible, can be so prepared as to become quite wholesome and nutritious. Other favorite dishes, too, which have been banished because they were expensive, will again make their appearance after Mrs. Vaughn has shown how they may be made in a less expensive manner, or else made possible by introducing them into a menu made up, otherwise, of quite inexpensive dishes. Mrs. Vaughn believes in economy of time and strength, as well as of dollars and cents, and will show how to serve a meal in such a way as to save many steps. She says: "Plan your kitchen work and your plan." Women walk many unnecessary miles each day as they go about their work. The smaller more carefully arranged kitchen has done much to eliminate extra steps, and the woman who uses her head to save her hands and feet may do much more effective work in the kitchen, and have more time for the pleasures she is hungering for. "All work and no play" not only makes Jack a dull boy, but it creates a dreary routine for a woman, which sometimes drives her to desperation, and at all times makes her feel that the lot of the housekeeper is a very hard and uninteresting one.

WOMAN OF WEALTH IS SLAYER OF HUSBAND

Mrs. Millie Brown Tries to Kill Herself and Her Woman Friend.

VISITS WOMAN AND LAUGHS AND JOKES

Gives No Hint of Grim Tragedy
Until Many Hours After It Occurred.

[UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE.]

Oakland, Cal., Oct. 25.—Crazed with jealousy over the alleged attentions paid to another woman by her husband, and still grieving over the death of her mother two years ago, Mrs. Millie Brown fired two shots at her heart yesterday morning in an unsuccessful attempt to kill herself, and then, a few minutes later, shot her husband, Archer C. Brown, twice through the head, killing him instantly.

Twelve hours later Mrs. Brown attempted to kill Mrs. Marie Miller, housekeeper for Dr. Henry M. Pine, in the kitchen of the Pine home, placing her revolver against Mrs. Miller's back as she stooped to look at an oven, but forgetting to release the trigger lock of the weapon. Then she fled.

Tells Husband's Brother.

At 11:30 o'clock last night she informed W. H. Brown, brother of her husband, and a lawyer of San Francisco, of the tragedy. The woman led Brown to the home of the couple and showed the dead body of her husband. A physician was summoned and the police notified. Mrs. Brown was placed under arrest early today. She is now in a cell in the Oakland city jail, raving incoherently.

The Brown home is a palatial one, situated in the midst of the exclusive Lakeside district. Brown was the son of the late Superior Judge Brown of San Francisco, one of the best known jurists of the Pacific coast. He left a large fortune to his sons.

Prepared to Kill Herself.

Mrs. Brown made careful preparations to kill herself, according to investigations of the police. On a bureau beside her bed was found the following note:

"Precious Mother in Heaven: Forgive me for killing myself. I cannot help it. I am going to leave Archer. He is in love with another woman—"

The note ended abruptly.

In the night dress worn by the woman are two holes in the left side, powder marked, where she shot at herself. The bullets just grazed her skin in the region of the heart.

MUCH BUILDING BEING DONE IN CITY SUBURBS

Although business permits issued by City Recorder Elgin this week have not been so numerous, building activity in Salem is about the same as last week. Most of the building, however, is going on in the suburbs. At least 20 new cottages have been completed during the past four days in North and South Salem, while many more are still under construction. Improvements work is keeping the carpenters busy now.

The new railroad bridge which is being constructed over Mill creek, on North Front street, is beginning to take shape now, and the work is being rushed as speedily as possible. All the machinery used for sinking the concrete piles and excavating is still on the ground, and the foot of the hoisting engine can be heard from early morning until late at night.

The new bridge spanning North Mill creek on Liberty street, is "standing the weather" in great shape.
